Summary

I am Thiago Javier Martins, co-founder of Masked Bytes and a Fullstack Developer passionate about creating innovative and high-quality software solutions. With a solid background in web development and experience in the MERN stack (MongoDB, Express, React, Node.js), my specialty covers both the frontend and the backend, using technologies such as JavaScript, React, Redux, Node.js, Express, Sequelize, and PostgreSQL.

As a Teaching Assistant at Henry, I have had the opportunity to coordinate and guide students on their path to becoming Full Stack developers. I focus on fostering group collaboration, problem solving, and process optimization, always looking for ways to improve the learning experience.

My experience includes the creation of an eCommerce for a children's clothing store and a Marketplace for health professionals, standing out for my ability to work in multidisciplinary teams and develop secure, efficient, and functional platforms. I consider myself a proactive, disciplined, and results-oriented person, always committed to continuous learning and improving my skills.

With an advanced level of English (C1 certified by EFSET), I am prepared to face international challenges and collaborate on global projects. My goal is to continue growing in the world of software development, exploring new technologies and adding value through innovative and effective solutions.
